Title of the Research Topic	Impact of Digital Technology in Everyday Life: A Sociological Study among the Secondary School Students in Sambalpur District, Odisha
Abstract of the Research Work	The advancement of digital technology is one of the wonderful gifts of modern science. It has virtually altered every sphere of our everyday lives. Everyday life refers to all the activities that people perform on a daily basis as part of their regular lives, and nowadays, all of these activities are influenced by digital technology. The use of digital technology is now becoming incredibly popular among people of all ages, and one of those groups is school students. Furthermore, divisions occur in the field of educational institutions. Because of a lack of infrastructure, the majority of government schools use traditional methods of teaching with little use of technology. While in private schools, there is a high frequency of using technology tools in the teaching-learning process. Moreover, digital technology-based lifestyles have several adverse impacts and create a digital divide among students. The researcher in the present work has made an attempt to understand the impact of digital technology on everyday life affairs like; education, health, recreation, and social relationships among the students in government and private secondary schools of Sambalpur district in Odisha.
