Title of the research topic	Legal Framework of Right to Health and Health insurance in India with Special Reference to Government Health Insurance Policies
Abstract of the research work (max. 300 words)	Now a days health is a major issue of our life. From the beginning it was stated that health is real wealth of human life not pieces of gold and silver. If a person has good health, he can do anything like appear in work, office, exam, class etc. A health condition directly controls the physical and mental condition of human beings. Because if a person entered into poor health condition, then they immediately rush to hospital and the hospital expenses create a pressure on the mind of a person. The only one way to protect such kind of risk that is good health insurance. So, health insurance is only an instrument which give such kind of relief to a person from uncertain health risk. Health insurance is a type of insurance that cover medical expenses that arise due to an illness. Over the last 50-year India has achieved a lot in the term of health insurance but still India is behind many developed countries in health Insurance. In case of government sponsor health insurance schemes, the quality and quantity are poor in India. Being right to health is a fundamental right under article 21of the constitution of India followed with various decision of supreme court it is the duty of the state to protect and give attention to the health condition of people. Health is the most important factor in national development. It is a condition of persons physical and mental state and signifies freedom from any disease or pain. Right to health is a vital right without which none can exercise one’s basic human rights. The Government is under obligation to protect the health of the people because there is close nexus between Health and the quality of life of a person. Health is one of the basic requirements of human being. Nowadays India is facing problem of degradation of health. The Constitution of India is supreme law to govern the whole nation but there are no single entries relating to right health and health insurance in our Constitution. The condition of health is worsening day by day in spite of various health schemes and policies. The Supreme Court is performing Nobel function of interpretation of provisions of Constitution. Even after several decision of Supreme Court relating to “Right to Health” our government not take a single step to implements these rights. The framers of Indian Constitution have rightly inserted various implied provisions regarding health of public but there is no direct provision regarding this. For this reason, I selected this topic for my research work.
